IS A STRANGE STORY

Mayor of a Kansas Town Had Himself Buried.

He Was Living Under an Alias and Wanted to Escape Prosecution for Bigamy.

HE MADE A CONFESSION

Emporia, Kan., August 26.—The mystery of the burial of a coffin filled with ice at Orlando, Logan county, Okla., has been cleared away. It was not an attempt at an insurance swindle, but an attempt to escape prosecution for bigamy. Coda S. Morris, with a recently married wife in Emporia, was "buried" by himself, alias John Cox of Gentry, Mo. His real name was James Pendleton, and he is mayor of Gentry, Mo., where he has a wife and five children. His attempt to "bury" Coda S. Morris at Orlando was to elude his bride, Grace Obley-Morris of Emporia.

James Pendleton, alias Coda S. Morris, alias John Cox, was arrested yesterday. Pendleton made a full confession to the sheriff of Lyon county, and newspaper men here this morning. Sheriff O'Connor went to Albany, ten miles from Gentry, Mo., and returned to Emporia with Pendleton last night. Mrs. Coda Morris accompanied Sheriff O'Connor. She identified Pendleton as the man to whom she was married June 17 in Emporia by the Rev. Mr. Parker of the Christian church. Pendleton willed when he met the woman he had wronged, but would not talk. The warrant was sworn out for Pendleton's arrest on the charge of bigamy, by his second wife, Grace Obley-Morris of Emporia.

The clew that led to Pendleton's arrest after the mixed up mystery of which he was the author, originated from the fact that August 15, when he, "John Cox," bought the coffin and the 200 pounds of ice at Perry, Okla., for the burial of Coda Morris, he also purchased a crate of peaches. The coffin and ice were sent to Orlando, the peaches to Mrs. James Pendleton, Gentry, Mo. On this clew, the mystery was solved. It was discovered that James Pendleton returned to his home in Gentry, August 16, from Oklahoma, after an absence of eight months. Sheriff O'Connor, of Lyon county, telegraphed the marshal of Gentry to arrest Pendleton. He refused to do so because Gentry was the mayor. O'Connor then telegraphed Sheriff Barkley at Albany, Mo., the county seat, to arrest Pendleton, and he did so Saturday night. After being arrested Pendleton refused to talk, but this morning in the county jail here, he made a full confession, admitting that he had been leading a double life, and that he had buried himself to avoid prosecution for bigamy.

Captain J. R. Puryear has gone to Nashville on business.

THE NEW ASSESSMENT

Some Timely Pointers From Lexington That Hold Good Here

Assessment Next Month Is for the Succeeding Four Years in Second Class Cities.

ADVICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS

Paducah is to have her first assessment under the second class charter next month, and it will be for four years. The assessment is as to the value on September 15, and the new tax levy must be made before January 1.

The Herald, of Lexington, also a second class city, has the following to say of the assessment there:

"Owners of real estate in the city of Lexington cannot be too often, nor too earnestly reminded that the assessment of their property which will be made September 15 next, will stand as the assessment for four years. It behooves every owner to leave nothing to guess work and to relieve the assessor of the necessity of putting a valuation upon property. The law requires him to do this to the best of his knowledge and ability, where the owner fails to refuse to give in his list."

There will be no copying of old assessments, and the man who says to himself that he has the same property this year that he had last year, and the assessor may just copy that list, will be disappointed, for it will not be copied. The valuations will be made independently of any heretofore made. There will be an actual inspection of every piece of real estate, and if the owner will not assist the assessor by bringing his list to him, with the owner's valuation of each piece, that valuation will be made without his assistance.

"Some people may rely upon the board of equalization rectifying any mistakes of excessive valuation made by the assessor. In this they will be disappointed. The board may increase valuations, but has no power to reduce them, and this supervisory power can only be exercised in four years, unless in the meantime the property has undergone a change, either by the destruction of improvements worth more than a hundred dollars, or the addition of improvements of equal value. What property owners should do is to begin at once to take their lists to the city assessor. He is not obliged to go for them. That is a matter of which is liable to be overlooked. It is not a part of the duty of the assessor to hunt up the owner and inquire of him his opinion as to what assessment should be set down against him."

The charter recites, "When an assessment has been made against a person who has had an actual notice to appear and list his property, or make statements thereof, and fails to do so, the same shall not be decreased but may be increased by the board of equalization. If any person refuses to attend when summoned or refuse to answer any questions propounded to him by the assessor or his deputy, or the assessor or his deputy may ask the police judge to issue a warrant against such person." The fine for refusing to attend when summoned, or for refusing to answer proper questions, is $10. A policeman will be detailed to serve the summons upon property owners, so that they shall have proper notice.

"As to the assessment of personal property, the law will be enforced. Here-

ANOTHER BAD WRECK

Brakeman Killed in a Derailment on the Southern.

Over Twenty Cars Piled Up and Several Hurt—Bridegroom Arrested.

MISS O'REAR'S FUNERAL

WRECK NEAR SCOTTSVILLE.

Scottsville, Ky., August 26.—An eastbound freight train on the Southern railway was wrecked this morning near Waddy. Twenty-two cars and the engine left the track. Brakeman Wm. Purdon, of Louisville, was killed and several injured. The cause of the wreck could not be ascertained by the officials of the road. It is believed, however, that it was caused by spreading rails. Purdon was a native of Lancaster, but lived at Parkland, near Louisville. Brakeman Cooley was injured.

BRIDEGROOM ARRESTED.

Howling Green, August 26.—George Carver, of Barren county, a bridegroom of a few hours, was arrested here on a charge of housebreaking.

MISS O'REAR'S FUNERAL.

Frankfort, August 26.—The funeral of the late Miss Mabel O'Rear, who was drowned near Cincinnati, took place this afternoon at Mt. Sterling.

HIGHWAYMEN AT LANCASTER.

Lancaster, Ky., August 26.—Marion Mitchell was held up on the streets here last night and robbed of $30.

SUSPECT CAUGHT.

MAN IN JAIL BELIEVED TO HAVE STOLEN HORSES.

Fulton, Ky., August 26.—Officers Robertson of this city and Walker of South Fulton, Tenn., went out in Weakley county and arrested Simon Sharp, colored, and captured with him a horse and buggy stolen from Henry Cheek of this city. As bloody clothing was found in the buggy a search of the woods is being made for a possible corpse. He is being guarded in Fulton jail.

Miss Drury Hand, who is now in Superintendent H. U. Wallace's office at Freeport, arrived in the city this morning to visit her parents.

A DASTARDLY CRIME

Young Lady Shot and Killed by Her Rejected Sweetheart.

He Returned to Take Her, and Had Threatened to Kill Her If She Did Not Go.

THE OHIO MURDER CASE

Huntingdon, August 26.—News has just reached here that Miss Maud Thompson was killed by James Greer, near the young lady's home in Henderson county.

The report says that Greer was at the girl's house last spring and tried to get her to go away with him, which she refused to do. He told her he was coming back in August, and if she did not go with him then he would kill her.

On the day set for Greer to come back he accosted Miss Maud and her mother as they were returning from a neighboring family. He came out of a gully and overtook the two women, asking the elder, "Have you got anything against me?" She answered, "No," and Maud spoke up and said, "None of us have anything against you."

Greer then said, "Miss Maud, I have a word for you," and, stepping in between Maud and her mother, said something in a low tone which the mother did not hear, threw one arm around Maud's neck and shot her twice with a pistol. The girl lived only a short time.

Chicago, August 26.—Doubt as to the identity of the body buried as Minnie Mitchell must for some time complicate the mystery shrouding the Bartholin-Mitchell murder case. For the second time Judge Brentano today refused to issue an order to exhume the body of the woman, which was found on August 7 in the weeds of a lonely field at Seventy-fourth and State streets. A plan was on foot to have dentists who worked on the young woman's teeth inspect those of the dead body to clear up the doubts of identity, but Robert Mitchell, brother of the supposed deceiver, declined to sign affidavits necessary for the exhumed. He said his family was willing that the body be disinterred, but that although the only means of identification they had were articles of clothing found near the dead body, they were not willing to take the initiative.

AMONG THE TEACHERS

A Five Day's Drill Begins Next Monday Morning.

Miss Elizabeth Walsh of Louisville Will Conduct It—The Vacation.

SCHOOLS READY FOR OPENING

Miss Elizabeth Walsh of Louisville will arrive in the city Saturday and beginning Monday will conduct a five days' drill with the teachers of the primary department of the local schools.

This as a plan that Superintendent Hatfield worked out to secure better results in the primary department, and he thinks that the schools will be advanced at least one year by the drill. Miss Walsh is a supervisor in the public schools at Louisville and under her supervision the schools there have undergone wonderful progress. She teaches the latest methods which have been taught throughout the country, and the pupils are handled easier and to a better advantage under her method. She will be assisted here by Superintendent Hatfield and several of the higher teachers. Superintendent Hatfield has issued a call to all the primary teachers for Monday, and beginning with that day the drill will be continued for five days, ending Friday afternoon.

In regard to the vaccination of pupils Superintendent Hatfield stated this morning that all pupils, in accordance with the law passed by the board last year, will have to show a good vaccination scar or will have to be vaccinated before they can enter into the schools. There has been much trouble in the schools on account of this heretofore, and the board found it necessary to pass the rule to save the teachers' time and also to prevent a hitch in the studies, as whenever a smallpox scare visited the city the teachers would have to spend sometimes two days in seeing to the pupils in regard to proper vaccination.

All the buildings are now in the best of condition and the work ordered by the board has all about been finished. The plumbers at the high school will have steam up in the boiler by the 1st of the month and the only building where the plumbing remains incomplete is the Jefferson building, and this will be finished before the opening of the schools.

A BAD NEGRO.

JOE JOHNSON BROUGHT IN FROM MAYFIELD TODAY.

Marshal McNutt of Mayfield arrived in the city at noon with Joe Johnson, colored, one of the negroes charged with stealing pistols from the Geo. O. Hart store. Two pistols of excellent make were found on him. He is known to have served a term in the penitentiary from Henderson and is a mean negro. He had a woman with him whom he claimed was his wife. At Mayfield his trunk, filled with articles of many kinds, is held and it is thought that the contents were stolen.

THE RAIN DIDN'T HURT

The First Day of the Gun Club Tournament a Success.

Many Visiting Marksmen Are Here and Many Others Are Expected—Ten Events Today.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM SHOWN

The first day of the Paducah gun club's big tournament opened today under rather unpropitious circumstances, as a light rain fell during the day. A large number of crack marksmen are here to attend.

There are several good events today, but the big day is Thursday. Among those who arrived last night and today are: Al Shellerking, Evansville, Ind.; W. W. Watson, Louisville; Andy Meaders, Joel A. Carter, Dr. P. McAllen, George Shields, Jr., Frank Legler, J. B. Martin, W. W. Phillips, G. H. Hillman, Nashville; W. A. Long, Mt. Pleasant, Tenn.; W. D. Thompson, Memphis; J. T. Griffin and James Lewis, Owensboro; O. O. LeCompte, Eminence; O. W. Phelps, Cincinnati; F. F. Torrey, Cairo; M. Gentry Hillman, Birmingham, Ala.; D. A. McGehee, Carner Mills, Ill.; G. H. Mitchell and Gus Mitchell, West End, Ill.; N. Money, New Haven, Ky.; R. S. McMillan and D. A. Kimball, Tilden, Ill., and Charles G. Spencer, St. Louis.

Those who arrived yesterday are: Hood Waters and Lewis Williams, Jr., representatives of the Ladin and Rand Powder company, of New York; John W. Mackie, of the Peters Cartledge company, of Cincinnati; R. O. Helkes, of Dayton, O.; who won third money in the Grand American handicap at Kansas City this year; Ben Eloh, of the Dupont Powder company; H. W. Koeler and S. J. Higgins, of Duquoin, Ill.

The club this year has two sets of Magma traps having borrowed these of the Railroad Gun club, which club will assist the Paducah club in holding the event this year. Targets will be thrown fifty yards. The weight of guns is limited to eight pounds. Shells of all kinds and any load will be for sale on the grounds.

Today's events were:

- Event No. 1, 15 targets—Entrance $1.50, $5 added.
- Event No. 2, 20 targets—Entrance $2, $7 added.
- Event No. 3, 15 targets—Entrance $1.50, $5 added.
- Event No. 4, 20 targets—Entrance $2, $7 added.
- Event No. 5, 15 targets—Entrance $1.50, $5 added.
- Event No. 7, 15 targets—Entrance $1.50, $5 added.
- Event No. 8, 20 targets—Entrance $2, $7 added.
- Event No. 9, 15 targets—Entrance $1.50, $5 added.
- Event No. 10, 20 targets—Entrance $2, $7 added.

The rain, however, did not affect the shooters. The shooting today was the best, in point of numbers, ever held here, and there were ten squads shooting in the forenoon. The club has good sheds there, and the members do not mind a little rain.

Captain Weille has provided well for every emergency, and certainly deserves credit for the splendid manner in which he has arranged for the guests. He is the busiest man in town, and does everything for the convenience of the visitors and members of the home club.

Mr. Jim Baldwin, the well known printer, left at noon today for St. Louis, where he has accepted a position on the St. Louis Chronicle.

WHERE ILLITERACY LIES

Proportion of Educated Men Larger in City Than Country.

Six Per Cent in Cities Illiterate and 13 Per Cent in the Country.

Washington, August 26—The census office has issued a preliminary report on illiteracy among men of voting age in city and country districts in the census year 1900. The report included under the term "illiterate" those who can neither read nor write, and also a small number who can read, but cannot write.

In the United States as a whole, including Alaska and Hawaii, the male population at least 21 years of age and living in cities having at least 25,000 inhabitants was 5,885,644, of whom 339,223, or 6 per cent were represented as illiterate.

In the rest of the country the number of men of voting age was 15,248,655, of whom 1,954,247, or 13 per cent, were reported as illiterate.

These figures indicate that illiteracy among adult males is less than half as prevalent in the large cities as it is in the rest of the United States. The difference, the report says, is due largely to the fact that the urban population of the country is massed in the northern and western states, and illiteracy is less frequent there than in other parts of the country.

TO WEAR GRAY

Preparations to Organize a Y. M. C. A. Football Team.

Secretary Hanna to Make a Feature of the Educational Work.

Mr. B. F. Matthis, the physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., will on Tuesday night call the members of the association together to organize or perfect arrangements to organize a football team for the coming season. The association had a football team last year and the games brought in some little revenue to the association.

The uniform adopted by the association is gray trousers with blue sleeveless shirts, and as soon as the classes are organized the uniforms will be ordered. All members will be trained in accordance to regular gymnasium rules and no one will be permitted on the floor without the regular uniform and rubber sole shoes.

Secretary Hanna is rigging up the class rooms upstairs, and will have within a short time all the rooms in the best of condition. He will make a feature of the educational work and will arrange for regular teachers, the best the city affords, to teach in all branches of drawing, free hand, architectural and mechanical, and will make it as good an opportunity for the members to learn as can be secured anywhere.

Former Secretary Escott will arrive in the city today and will complete his financial affairs. He has nearly all the money promised and a few dollars only remain to be subscribed.

A SUMMER TRIP UN- SURPASSED ON THE CONTINENT.

The trip to Salt Lake City or to the Pacific coast via that point over the Denver and Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western is the most beautiful in America. No European trip of equal length can compare with it in grandeur of scenery or wealth of novel interest. Then Salt Lake City itself is a most quaint and picturesque place and well worth the journey. Its Mormon temple, tabernacle, titling office and church institutions; its hot sulphur springs within the city limits; its delightful temperature, sunny climate and its great Salt Lake—deader and denser than the Dead Sea in Palestine—are but a few features of Salt Lake City's countless attractions. There are parks, drives, caucous and beautiful outlying mountains and lake resorts. Imagine, if you can, a bathing salt-water a mile above sea level and in water in which the human body cannot sink. Inquire of your nearest ticket agent for low tourist rates to Salt Lake City, or write for information and copy of "Salt Lake City, the City of the Saints," to S. K. DIES OF HIS INJURIES.

Hopkinsville, Aug. 26—Robert W. Cooley, who was struck by a train at Hanson, died of his injuries, and his remains were interred in the family burial grounds near Kelly, this county. He was 40 years old and leaves a widow and four children, who have been living in Henderson for several months.

Mr. J. R. Pryor went to Nashville this morning to arrange for the entrance of his son, Carl Pryor, into the University of Tennessee. The young man will enter the dental department of the university and will leave for Nashville in a few weeks.

ters, and Duval soon fell in love with Miss Flora. He asked her to marry him, and she consented.

"Mrs. Chamberlain, the girl's mother, had suffered a paralytic stroke, and her illness prevented a home wedding. The young people therefore decided to be married by a minister in his own home, and to keep the marriage a secret until Duval could secure a vacation and take his bride to his Paducah home with him. It was his whim to tell his mother nothing about the matter until he should bring his wife to her and surprise her. In accordance with this idea the county clerk was asked not to give the license out for publication, and the request was granted.

"The young couple was married by a preacher who lives uptown, and was accompanied only by the necessary witnesses."

The burial of Engineer Duval took place at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Cave Hill, Louisville.

I tried everything to relieve them which failed until I used White's Cream Vermifuge; the first two doses brought four worms from one of them, the next two doses, twelve, one of them measuring twelve inches; the other child was relieved of four worms. It is a most excellent medicine." White's Cream Vermifuge is good for children. It not only destroys worms, it helps the child to perfect growth, wards off sickness. 25c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

INSURANCE OBSERVATIONS.

The Lexington Herald, in its usual able manner, makes some wise suggestions relative to the insurance rates that have created such a storm of protest in Lexington, following the re-rating of the city. A great deal of it can be applied to Paducah as well as Lexington, and none of it will hurt any of us if we read it.

"Insurance on property has now become a commercial necessity. It was formerly used as protection to the property insured. This is still its primary object, but perhaps not its most important result. No man can borrow money on improved real estate, merchandise, or other personal property unless it is insured; and as a rule in mortgages a provision is inserted that the property must be kept insured at a certain amount. How much property is now under mortgage subject to such stipulation, of course, we do not know. Merchants cannot obtain credit in the east if it is known that the store houses are not insured and that their stock is not insured. This subject, therefore, is of universal importance in its various ramifications. It is not a matter for heated debate, for party conventions, for political rhetoric.

"The insurance companies can declare no dividends on their capital stock except by insuring property at fair rates. Their policies are worthless unless the companies are solvent companies, paying dividends. Low premiums may mean wholly unsatisfactory insurance. The insured is perhaps more interested in the entire solvency of the insurance company than the stockholders themselves.

"The old mode of rating was partial, unsatisfactory and unprofitable. The new system is based upon just principles. They may not in every case be worked out in a particular city with intelligence and justice. The basic principle involved in this system is that the premium charged shall be based upon the risk insured against; that property exposed to many risks shall be required to pay a larger premium than property exposed to fewer risks. One advantage of this system has been to greatly diminish the risks. For instance, if the action of the insurance companies would force in this city safe, prudent and scientific use of electric wires, if it would result in larger facilities, and in a more efficient fire department, the result would be well worth the trouble and annoyance to which the individual citizens might be put. We do not mean to criticize the efficiency of our present fire department, but we do know that the facilities are not such as they ought to be. We ought to have more hydrants over the city. We ought to have more hose, and we suppose it is true that we ought to have a larger department.

"In certain cities no man is allowed to construct a house except under the supervision of a fire inspector. The ranges, stoves, wires, fire walls, partitions, openings must be arranged with a view to fire protection. How far this is done at all in this town is a subject with which we are not sufficiently familiar to do more than suggest its importance.

"The insurance companies want to do the business. The owners of the property want the protection. The insurance must be had. It is no longer a matter of option, but of necessity. It is to the untold advantage of the city that the property should be made as safe as practicable."

A well known gentleman who is tending the south, and takes a lively interest in the welfare of Paducah, writes The Sun that our people should come down to Jackson, Miss., if they want to see what it means to improve a city. "The place," he says, "has only 8,500 inhabitants, yet they have in course of construction 123 new buildings, a beautiful $40,000 court house, a million dollar capital building, and have just contracted for a mile and a half of brick streets. The secret of the success and progress of the place is due largely to the fact that the administration of affairs is in the hands of young men, and they are making the old town wake up. Paducah, it seems, needs some young blood."

The people howled about a "beef trust" when prices were high, principally because the demand was greater than the supply, and now the packers have consolidated, according to reports, and will fire a lot of their men, close down some of the present packing houses, and proceed to enjoy a more ample monopoly. There is already talk of establishing rival packing houses, but they likely could not hold out long against the cut-rate prices such a gigantic combination could make.

The next time Mr. Bryan withdraws from the race for the Democratic presidential nomination he ought to copy his reason from Hon. Henri Waterson's late valedictory, stating that he didn't want the nomination because it was already nailed down—by another fellow.

The dispatches yesterday told of a man whose body was forced through a five inch hole. It is probable that the Democratic county committee that "mot" last week could now crawl through a much smaller hole than that.

It will soon be cold weather, and the effect of the coal strike will be more apparent in the east. Fortunately we don't see much hard coal down here, so we can afford to look on and let the other fellows fight it out.

The last time Jo A. Parker, the erstwhile Populist editor of Paducah, was heard of, he was out in Kansas trying to hold a national Populist convention with six other Populists.

Chairman Charles Emery, of the Democratic county committee, if there is such a thing left, didn't stay fired long.

It looks as if they will have to put Chairman Emery out some more.

AGAIN IN FAVOR.

MUCH RAISING OF BILLS REPORTED TO GOVERNMENT.

The federal authorities of the state, according to the Owensboro Inquirer, are between a sweat and a shiver on account of the numerous instances of counterfeiting by means of raised bills reported from various parts of the state. At Hopkinsville a few weeks ago, a Tennessee deputy sheriff was captured with some of the raised bills in his possession, after having passed at least two. He was held for trial. A day or two ago several of the bills were found in circulation at Hickman, others at Paducah and one at Russellville. At Bowling Green bills were found in the hands of the business men and other innocent parties. It has not been so very long since one at least was passed in Owensboro. The favorite raise seems to be to make $20 out of a $2 bill, as nearly every instance reported shows these amounts, except the local one, which raised a one to a ten.

POSITIVE PROOF.

THIS IS WHAT GEN. MOLINEAUX SAYS HE HAS OF HIS SON'S INNOCENCE.

New York, August 26.—General Edward L. Molineaux, whose son, Roland, is in the Tomb awaiting his second trial on the charge of causing Mrs. Kate J. Adams' death, declared he has secured new evidence which will be presented when the trial is called in October.

"I know positively that my son is innocent of the crime of murder," he said. "I have the absolute proof in my possession." It is more than ten months since the court of appeals granted Molineaux a new trial. During that time the general has worked up the evidence through which, he says, he will establish the innocence of his son beyond the shadow of a doubt.

SAVED BY COMPANION.

MISS GOOCH RESCUES MISS LENA BLAIR.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 26.—Miss Leora Gooch, daughter of Congressman D. Linn Gooch of Covington, was the heroine of Gooch's Island, in the Greenbrier river, Va., late Saturday, by a thrilling rescue of Miss Lena B. Blair of Cincinnati, who took cramps while bathing. Miss Gooch went to her rescue and succeeded in getting her to shoal water, assisted by Miss Oskamp of Cincinnati, but not before Miss Blair had become unconscious. Artificial respiration was resorted to, but it was hours before Miss Blair was revived.

DISAPPOINTED OFFICER.

WHEN HE REACHED NEWBERRY THE PRISONER WAS GONE.

Marshal McOnill, of Kuttawa, passed through the city today at noon on route home from Fulton. He had gone to identify a prisoner supposed to have been wanted at Kuttawa for burglary, but the Fulton authorities had released the man through some misunderstanding.

Before, taxpayers have exercised their own judgment as to what was taxable and what was not taxable personally. The law requires that each person owning or having in his possession or under his control as agent, guardian, committee, executor, administrator, curator, trustee, receiver, commissioner or otherwise, tangible or intangible personal property on the 15th of September, are required on or before the 1st day of October to give him, the assessor, a true and complete list of the same, with the value thereof. After the complete list is given it is for the assessor to say what part of it is taxable and what is not. Many persons believe that if they lend money upon property in another county that the notes or mortgages are not taxable here, and fail to list them. So it is with cash on deposit in banks in another city or state. So it is with stocks in foreign corporations. All stocks of any kind should be reported to the assessor. If they are not taxable they will not be assessed.

"In such cases the parties are not only liable for the tax, but are also liable to a penalty of 20 per cent. of the amount of tax collected. The way to avoid this expense is to report all personal property to the officers."

Mr. W. S. Dick, last year county assessor, is this year city assessor.

SIGNIFICANCE OF NUMBER SEVEN

Woven into the history of the World in Many Peculiar Ways.

The number seven is not only considered a lucky number by the superstitions, but it was a symbolical number in the Bible, as well as among nations of antiquity. In the Old Testament we note that the Creator took seven days, and the seventh day was a sacred day of rest. Every seventh year was sacred, and the seven times seventh year ushered in a year of jubilee. There are seven principal virtues—faith, hope, charity, prudence, temperance, chastity and fortitude—and there are also seven deadly sins—pride, covetousness, lust, anger, gluttony, envy and sloth. There were seven champions of Christendom—St. George (England), St. Andrew (Scotland), St. Patrick (Ireland), St. David (Wales), St. Denis (France), St. James (Spain) and St. Anthony (Italy). There were seven ages of man, also seven wise men of Greece. Christ spoke seven times on the cross. Home was built on seven hills, and there are innumerable other traditions which go to prove that seven was a number to cling to. In these more modern times it is wonderful how often the number prevails. For instance, vaccination must take place every seven years, in order to escape small-pox; fashions change every seven years, and seven years is always a milestone in a person's age.

WORTHY OF J. P. MORGAN.

Boy Exhibits Qualities Which Stamp Him as a Coming Financier.

He was only a small boy, but in the eight years of his existence he'd learned to be terribly mean.

"I'll give you this nice big apple," he said one day to a pretty little damsel of his own age, "if you'll let me kiss you twenty times with your eyes shut."

She was a shy and modest little girl, but the apple was a temptation, and she succumbed.

"Mind," said the boy, "if you open your eyes you don't get the apple."

The apple-bought maiden closed her eyes.

"Smack! That's one," said the boy. An interval followed. "Smack! Another interval. "Smack!"

"Willie is making them last out," thought the girl.

At last the twentieth kiss was given.

"That's twenty; may I open my eyes, Willie?" asked the little lady.

"I'm not Willie," replied the boy who'd just given her a full-sized smack. "Willie's down the street, selling your kisses at two apples a time. You'd best not open your eyes yet, as he's taken in a heap of apples and the next six boys are awful ugly."

HAS A NOVEL ADVERTISING IDEA

Philadelphia Tailor Sends Labeled Peanuts to Prospective Patrons.

A Philadelphia tailor has evolved a novel idea in advertising. He sends through the mails, sealed, white boxes of pasteboard, and each box proves, on being opened, to contain some six or seven peanuts. The recipient of this cannot help but wonder. There is nothing but his own address on the plain little box and with-in there is no card nor anything else to show him whence the odd packet came.

"What fool joker," he mutters, "has been sending me peanuts?" and he opens one to find, neatly folded in the empty shell, a little poster reading, "It's no joke. We make the best fitting clothes in Philadelphia. New spring styles now ready." Then follows the tailor's name.

The nuts, as an examination proves, have been neatly split, their contents removed, the advertisements inserted, and then the shells glued together again so skillfully as to defy the joint's detection. It is a novel idea, says the Philadelphia Record, in advertising and it is making a good deal of talk.

A Sufficient Explanation.

An amusing answer was given in one of the British house of commons committee rooms. A witness was being examined with regard to the construction of a pier and he was asked what was the meaning of a "pier-head." "In a committee of the house of lords," returned the witness, "I should hesitate to answer, but here I may explain that it is made of wood and quite empty."

Remarkable Steamship Model.

So small is a working model of a steamship made by a mechanic of Frankfort-on-Maine that it will go into a match box.

BLIND READ PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Fifty Copies Embossed by Louisville, Ky., Printing House.

The American Printing House for the Blind in Louisville, one of the two printing houses of its kind in the country, has just finished embossing fifty copies of President Roosevelt's message to Congress for the New York State Library. The embossing of the President's message was made possible by the generosity of some unknown woman. Some time ago a blind man asked the Librarian for a copy of the message. He wanted an embossed copy, one that he could read. It was the first request for a President's message that the Librarian ever received, and the answer was that the message was not in the library. The Librarian said it was not likely to be for some time, as there was as yet no appropriation, and the treasury was empty. The Librarian told Jacob A. Rills, and Mr. Rills said he would write to a woman who he thought would donate the money. He wrote and was not disappointed when the answer came. The woman contributed money enough to emboss fifty copies, but under condition that her identity be concealed.

Promotions in German Army.

It is proposed to stimulate promotion in the German army by reducing the period of service required to authorize the retirement of an officer from 40 to 37 years and a bill for this purpose has been presented to the secretary of the military authorities. The retiring allowance is to be increased as to make the small pension granted three-fifths of the full pay.

A Warning.

When a man starts a conversation by saying he's a friend of yours, look out for some impudent remarks.—Philadelphia Record.

MORE LITIGATION.

FISHERMEN MAY BE MADE TO PAY AT REELFOOT.

Memphis, August 26—Captain J. C. Harris arrived from Tiptonville, Tenn., and was seen in regard to any further developments in the celebrated Reelfoot lake litigation, a feature of which was settled by the supreme court at Jackson several months ago.

He stated that his lawyers were drafting a bill of injunction to be filed in the chancery court at Union City this week, asking that sportsmen who fish and hunt on the lake for profit, selling their game to dealers and customers, be restrained from plying their trade unless he was paid a sufficient royalty. The supreme court decided that Captain Harris was the owner of the lake, but could not drain it because of the fact that its drainage would be detrimental to adjoining lands.

The lake being his property, he now desires to control it.

He stated that he did not desire to exact any pay from visiting sportsmen who came down to fish and hunt for pleasure and recreation, but to enhance the value of the lake as a tempting spot, he wanted to protect the fish and ducks from the professional sportsmen who sold the game for profit.

The need of a lock and dam on the big Sandy at Charleston was never more evident than now. The river is almost gone, and only a thin stream that one could jump across is all that is left, and the bottom can plainly be seen. The Ohio also is very low. The boats of the Pittsburgh Packet company are compelled to turn back from points near Pittsburgh and send their passengers and freight by rail.

SUCCESSFUL OPERA-TION PERFORMED.

Dr. Will Wayne the specialist,
this morning operated on John Wheeler, a farmer's son from Massac county, Ill., and removed a superfluous growth of skin from the eyes. Both eyes were completely covered and the boy was unable to see. The operation was a success.

Church Curiosity.
In the city of Heidelberg, Germany,
there is a building called the Church of the Holy Ghost, which is unique in its way, being the only church in the world in which the Protestant and Catholic services are held at the same time, a partition wall through the center separating the two congregations.

WHEN BABY IS COMING USE Mother's Friend.

Woman's greatest dream of beauty and glory is when nature has chosen her to become a mother. Every faculty is keenly alert and her nature the finest as she foresees the joy, the ambition, the success and the life-long satisfaction on coming, coming nearer, day by day, in the fear and innocent being so soon to see light, and how very uncertainly whether she will see a sweet girl or a brave boy face her on the pillow, adds zest to her expectancy.
Then, if ever, she should take care of her physical, mental and moral health.

MOTHER'S FRIEND applied externally
throughout pregnancy will relieve the pain of parturition, and no mother and child can fail to be healthy, hearty, strong, clear complexioned, pure blooded, calm nerved and cheerful in disposition, who are mutually influenced for months by the continued use of Mother's Friend.

The Herolam of Living.
"It is easy to die." But to live and live rightly, loyal to truth and cour-ageously steadfast to duty, with an honest, constant effort to see truth and duty clearly and intelligently—that is another and a harder task, says the Nashville American. To die requires no effort. To escape death is impossible. But what a fine, brave thing it is to live for the truth's sake, in face of the maledictions of the ignorant and the slanders of the malevolent.
There is a heroism in such living which the base mind cannot know.

Linen for Hotels.
The advance in the price of linen adds heavily in the expenses of maintaining the equipment of the big hotels in this city. The manager of one of these hotels said not long ago that he had paid $50,000 a year for linen to keep up his supplies, and that rooms were run all the year round at Belfast for his hotel. The wear and tear and loss of hotel furnishings make a more serious item in the expense account than the patron ro-lizes.—New York Sun.

The End of the Season

Translated from the French by Lawrence B. Fletcher.

IX. Autumn. The cosmopolitan crowd of visitors is rapidly thinning. An elegant villa surrounded by flower beds that have lost their glory, and lawns dotted with fallen leaves.

Persons: Lynne d'Avila, a dazzling Creole beauty of 23, with coal-black hair, piercing eyes and lips red with health and spirits. Mme. d'Avila, her mother. Fifty-five; a typical parvenue, rounded and plump; commonly nicknamed "Mme. Cardinal of the Tropics."

Mme. d'Avila, a good-looking young fellow of 30, with an engaging manner.

Lynne (glancing at the sparse promenade on the avenue) Well, this is the end, and we have another season to our credit.

Mme. d'Avila To our debit rather. Another failure! The third this year, counting Spin and Houngate.

Lynne—It isn't my fault, I assure you. I have done the impossible, almost, to win the prize—a husband!

Mme. d'Avila—And so have I.

Lynne—Yes. You have done too much. Several times, when I thought I had more than a nibble, you arrived on the scene and pulled on the line so hastily that the trout slipped off the hook and got away.

Mme. d'Avila—Oh, yes! Insult your mother after all the sacrifices—

Lynne—Were they not partly for yourself—chiefly, I should say, seeing that even if we had caught one of your old reprobates, it was not you, but I, that would have had to marry him?

Mme. d'Avila—My dear, I had perfect confidence in your ability to tame the worst of them after marriage. But we never got that far!

Lynne—And we never shall, with your system. Your ideas are too grand. You are too high.

Mme. d'Avila—Oh, I admit that I made a bad mistake, but there is no use in quarrelling about it now. It is time for action. Something must be done at once. You saw our bank statement this morning?

Lynne—Of course. Twenty thousand francs. Say eight months' respite. Then the altar, or—Ah! There is M. de Sully with his hat in the air. You don't know much about him, do you?

Mme. d'Avila—No. I have inquired of several people, but their answers were contradictory and unconvincing.

Lynne—He is not bad looking, at all events, I could learn to love him so much better than your old cripples. But, perhaps, as you know nothing definite about him, he is crippled too—financially.

Mme. d'Avila—Well, it is the last chance and it may be worth trying. Have you had any conversation with him?

Lynne—Only trivialities. We have met twice or three times. He asked me for a walk the other evening. . . . He is coming this way. You must contrive to leave us alone for a few minutes.

(Hat in hand, M. de Sully approaches and pays his respects to the ladies.)

Mme. d'Avila (after the conventional civilities have been exchanged)—Are they still playing in the card room?

De Sully—I think so. It is almost the only thing left.

Mme. d'Avila—I feel a mad longing to know a few souls. Allow me to confide my daughter to your care, M. de Sully.

Lynne—Oh, mamma!

Mme. d'Avila (going)—A few minutes, only. Just long enough to lose—say 500 francs.

Lynne (aside)—Neatly done! (Aloud)—What makes you smile, monsieur?

De Sully—Your mother's words.

Lynne (innocently)—The 500 francs?

De Sully—No, her confiding you to my care.

Lynne—You will be a faithful guardian, I trust?

De Sully—Oh, the honesty of the guardian, you know, depends upon the value of the treasure.

Lynne (ostentatiously changing the subject)—Have you been here long?

De Sully—Let me see. Ten days ago I had the honor of being presented to you by my friend Marcelin.

I had arrived the day before. Have you spent the whole season here?

Lynne—Almost. My mother and I are very fond of Aix, and are among the last to leave, as you see.

De Sully—Are you going back to Paris?

Lynne—No. We are going first to Touraine, for the hunting. Mamma bought a chateau there last year.

De Sully (tentatively)—Touraine? I know the country thoroughly. What part of Touraine?

Lynne (embarrassed)—A few miles from Tours, near Valençay. (Quickly and gushingly) Oh, how I love the grand, free, open-air country life, with its horses, dogs, sports of all kinds. Are you interested in the country, monsieur?

De Sully—Very much so. The care of my estate occupies much of my time.

Lynne (with a good deal of curiosity)—Then your estate must be extensive.

De Sully—Yes, very; and, as I am an only son, I have the entire care of them. In addition, I have one passion, yachting.

Lynne—I have the same. I adore the sea. When I lived in Brazil I often went out on my uncle's vessels.

De Sully—You are a Brazilian, then?

Lynne—Yes. Do I not show it hut too plainly? My father, whom I lost a few years ago, made his fortune in the diamond mines. But you must know all this already.

De Sully—No. How should I?

Lynne—Oh! watering place gossip—or your friend Marcelin.

De Sully—He met you first at Spa, you remember, and only passed through Aix. I saw scarcely anything of him.

Lynne—Why have you waited so long before coming to me to have this friendly little chat with me?

De Sully—How about the grand duke?

Lynne—Which grand duke?

De Sully—Come! You spoke of gossip. It seemed to be entirely occupied with your approaching marriage to his royal highness.

Lynne (flattered)—Oh! with a cousin of the emperor! How absurd! Besides, to speak frankly, his royal highness is rather—mature. No. I am one of those rare and peculiar women who do not believe in marriage without love.

De Sully—Then you ought not to have interrupted my—paradox, as you called it.

Lynne—Were you going to speak of love? It is easy to talk about, but difficult to demonstrate.

De Sully—Meaning that you would not have been convinced by my demonstration?

Lynne—Even if I had been convinced I could not with propriety, considering the shortness of our acquaintance, have confessed that the demonstration was agreeable.

De Sully (suddenly)—What a pity it is!

Lynne—What is?

De Sully—That one's wild dreams cannot be realized. (In an altered voice) I do not know, mademoiselle, whether we shall ever meet again—especially after what I am going to tell you—but since you wish proofs, I will make two avowals. The second of them will be the proof of the first.

Lynne (coquettishly)—Begin with the second, then.

De Sully—It is not so easy or so pleasant as the other, and the fact that I make it shows how strongly you have interested me. Your words of encouragement have made me reflect that I was on the point of acting very dishonorably—and I cannot do so toward you. (Speaking with effort) Except that I am a man of honor within the meaning of the code, I am in no respect what I appear or profess to be.

Lynne (amazed)—How?

De Sully—My name is not De Sully, but Mennier. I have no estates, no yacht, no fortune. I am a poor man, my only heritage being a few thousand francs which I am squandering as economically as possible in places where heiresses congregate. In the hope of finding one credulous enough or sufficiently in love with me to marry me. There is my honest confession. I hope you will pardon my former words, which were simply professional falsehoods.

Lynne—Why do you tell me this?

De Sully—Because—and this is the first avowal, which you would have lost because I love you.

Lynne—Since this morning?

De Sully—I loved you at first sight. I have loved you a little more every time I have met you, and I have tried to meet you every day. But in love I am a skeptic, almost an atheist, and that I have dared to tell you my love shows how completely it has mastered me. This is, perhaps, the first time in my life that I have acted up-rightly. Do not be too angry with me.

Lynne (much affected, dreamily)—You are right. It is pity.

De Sully—That we are now so far apart?

Lynne—No, but that we are too near together. I am in the same position as yourself. I have neither chateau nor horses, neither yacht nor diamond mines. I am hunting for a rich husband in the same covert that you are hunting down for a dowered wife, and I am not very patiently awaiting the portion of happiness or misery that fate may bring me. I am tired of playing the role of candle to decrepit moths with golden wings. I am pretty, you see, too pretty, and so I have no right to anything but what I may fetch in the market. I am only a chattel like a railway bond or a Sevres vase. Your frankness deserves a return, and it shall have it. I, too, have another confession to make. It will be as harmless as yours, since our two impetuous fates can never be one. In the short time that I have known you I have guessed, from various trifling signs, that you were not enormously rich, but still I believed you had—oh, how shall I express it?

De Sully—A modest competence, as people say?

Lynne—That is it. And on this foundation I built a romance—the first heartfelt romance of my life. I gave up pling for the stars, and was happy in dreaming of a modest, simple existence—with you.

De Sully (sadly)—We were designed for each other, but destined never to realize the design.

Lynne—Like so many others in this queer world!

De Sully—And, loving each other, we still each contract the most stupidly conventional of marriages with some one else.

Lynne—And regret it all our lives. (A long silence. Then their hands clasp as if by instinct.)

Lynne (in a choking voice)—Is it adieu?

De Sully—Au revoir, rather, for who knows? Are you doing Nice this winter?

Lynne—Yes, and you?

De Sully—Of course. Perhaps we can help each other.

Lynne (more cheerfully)—Agreed! An revoir, then.

(He Sully presses her hand and is gone.)

Mme. d'Avila (returning)—Well! How about De Sully? Is he coming on?

Lynne—Oh, mamma, mamma! He is a—colleague.—N. Y. Post.

The Harbor Lights.

When the sweet dusk comes down, and

swirls and swirls

Take its soft dimness, and the dew un-

locks

The deep hearts of the flowers and sets

them free;

When swift incoming tides rise on the rocks,

Eager to meet the slowly lifting moon

And mirror back her beauty's mystery—

Then harbor lights shine out, across the sea.

Man's friendly greeting with God's blessing light

In one pure ray. . . . And so the call grows white

Nearby the shore, passing the guiding light.

To anchor 'neath the headlands, safe and soon.

It seems to musing eyes a vision sent,

A soft dream-picture, imaging the best

And glad home-coming of a soul to rest.

—Madeline B. Bridges, in Overland Monthly.

Be Strong.

Be strong!

We are not here to play, to dream, to drift.

We have hard work to do, and loads to lift.

Shun not the struggle—face it! 'Tis God's gift.

Be strong!

Say not the days are evil. Who's to blame?

And fold the hands and acquiesce—oh,

shame!

Stand up, speak out, and bravely, in God's name.

Be strong!

It matters not how deep entrenched the wrong,

How hard the battle goes, the day how long,

Faith not—fight on! To-morrow comes the song.

—Mabelle D. Babcock, D. D., in S. S. Times.

A Rain Song.

Don't you love to lie and listen,

Listen to the rain,

With its little patter, patter,

And its tiny clatter, clatter,

And its silvery spatter, spatter,

On the roof and on the pane?

Yes, I love to lie and listen,

Listen to the rain.

It's fairies—Pierrot and Plucky,

Nip and Nimble—Toes and Lucky,

Tripp and Thimble—Toes and Tucky—

On the roof and on the pane!

That's my dream the while I listen,

Listen to the rain.

I can see them running races,

I can watch their laughing faces

At their gleeful games and games,

On the roof and on the pane!

—Clifton Scollard, in St. Nicholas.

War.

"From hill to hill he harried me;

He stalked me day and night.

He neither knew nor hated me;

Not his nor mine the fight.

"He killed the man who stood by me,

For such they made his law.

Then foot by foot I fought to him,

Who neither knew nor saw.

"I trained my rifle on his heart:

He leapt up in the air.

My screaming ball tore through his breast,

And lay embedded there.

"It lay embedded there, and yet,

His head home o'er his belt and sea,

Straight to the aching heart of her

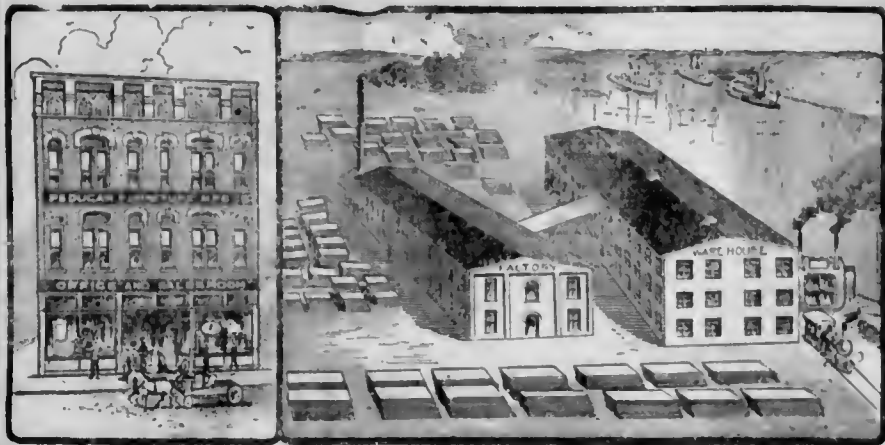

Who ne'er did wrong to me,

—Arthur Birringer, in Alliance Magazine.

CASE OF DESERTION.

MRS. ARTHUR SMITH GOES TO BENTON TO SEEK HER HUSBAND.

Mrs. Arthur Smith, a poorly dressed but rather good looking woman with a two year old boy, was at the city hall today seeking assistance from the mayor. She said her husband deserted her at Benton two months ago with a two year old babe, and she was forced to go to Lewisburg and work in a family there to support herself and child.

Hearing that there was a good place here, she took what money she had and came here with it, but only to fail. She was furnished a ticket to Benton by Mayor Yeiser, and says she understands her husband is back there, and that if he is he cannot live in Marshall county without supporting the child.

Mr. L. A. Boli, Jr., and wife, of Kuttawa, are at the Palmer.
